Socially Intelligent Agents: Creating Relationships with Computers and Robots (Multiagent Systems, Artificial Societies, and Simulated Organizations) From Springer

Socially situated planning provides one mechanism for improving the social awareness of agents. Obviously this work is in the preliminary stages and many of the limitations and the relationship to other work could not be addressed in such a short chapter. The chief limitation, of course, is the strong commitment to defining social reasoning solely at the meta-level, which restricts the subtlety of social behavior. Nonetheless, our experience in some real-world military simulation applications suggest that the approach, even in its preliminary state, is adequate to model some social interactions, and certainly extends the state-of-the-art found in traditional training simulation systems. Acknowledgments This research was funded by the Army Research Institute under contract TAPC-ARI-BR.
