Harness the Therapeutic Power of the Superhero!

- Application of the Star Wars Adoption Narrative
- Emotional Literacy and the Incredible Hulk
- Batman and Trauma
- What Would Superman Do--An Adlerian Approach?

With an incisive historical foreword by John Shelton Lawrence and insight from contributors such as Michael Brody, Patty Scanlon, and Roger Kaufman, Lawrence Rubin takes us on a dynamic tour of the benefits of using these icons of popular culture and fantasy in counseling and play therapy. Not only can superheroes assist in clinical work with children, but Rubin demonstrates how they can facilitate growth and change with teen and adults. Early childhood memories of how we felt pretending to have the power to save the world or our families in the face of impending danger still resonate in our adult lives, making the use of superheroes attractive as well, to the creative counselor.

In presenting case studies and wisdom gleaned from practicing therapists' experience, Lawrence Rubin shows how it is possible to uncover children's secret identities, assist treatment of adolescents with sexual behavior problems, and inspire the journey of individuation for gay and lesbian clients, all by paying attention to our intrinsic social need for superhero fantasy and play.

Editorial Review

Review

There is something democratic about a therapy that can respond empathically to the experiences that patients enjoy and feel that they understand emotionally. - From the Foreword by John Shelton Lawrence, Morningside College, Emeritus

Review

"The diverse contributions are also united by an underpinning belief in the value of providing children with opportunities to explore and understand aspects of their emotional life and experiences, through imaginary play, within the safety of a containing therapeutic relationship. As such, there is much of merit and interest in this volume and the focus on these contributions on a specific theme--Superheroes--is to be welcomed as an enriching addition to the play therapy literature."--British Journal of Play Therapy
